

EULab Summer School 2020

7th – 16th July 2020

Programme

Week 1

Tuesday, 7 July 2020

09:00 – 11:00; 11:15 – 13:00

Young Scholars Workshop on Trafficking for the Purpose of Labour Exploitation

The Young Scholars Workshop aims to bring together young researchers within interdisciplinary migration studies with the aim to foster a fruitful discussion on crucial aspects of career development. To this end, the first part of the Workshop will allow each participant to briefly present their research topics and to highlight difficulties or hurdles they have encountered in their academic activities. In this edition of the Summer School, the focus of the Young Scholars Workshop will be research on trafficking for the purpose of labour exploitation.

14:00 – 16:00

Young Scholars Workshop on Trafficking for the Purpose of Labour Exploitation

The second part of the Young Scholars Workshop will consist in a reflection on the issues highlighted during the first part. In particular, under the guidance of a member of the Summer School teaching staff, participants will discuss crucial aspects of career development with specific reference to interdisciplinary migration studies (including but not limited to project design, interdisciplinary approaches to research topics and dissemination of research outcomes).
